MISS MERZE MARVIN

PREFACE

The purpose of this little volume is to present to the McCausland descendants a brief, concise story of the origin of the McCausland family and the ancestral history of the Drumnakilly, Donaghanie and allied branches down to the present time. There are many other branches, all sprung from a common ancestor back in Scotland, but those the author leaves to the tender mercies of some other family historian.

To the friends whose kind interest and assistance have made possible this history, the author wishes to express deepest gratitude. Especially is she indebted to Sgt. R. A. McCausland of Donaghanie; Mr. A. Y. Casanovo, of Washington, D. C.; Mr. John S. McCausland, of Westboro, Mass.; Mrs. Thos. Hadfield of Dowington, Pa.; and Miss Margaret McCausland and Mr. R. C. Young of Philadelphia, for the interest they have manifested in the progress of the work, and for their valuable assistance, and to Dr. W. G. Reive, of Arthur, Ontario, who furnished valuable data on the ancestral history of the family.

CHAPTER I

THE ANCESTRAL FAMILY

The name McCausland, or MacAuslane, as it was called in an early day, is not unknown in ancient Scotch and Irish history. Away back in the days of the Wallace and the Bruce the MacAuslanes lived and flourished on the shores of the Beautiful Loch Lomond in the highlands of Scotland, and performed their part full well in the bloody conflicts of the times. There they were known as the "Clan Buchanan", the elder sons being Lairds of Buchanan. The story of the Clan is given complete in the next Chapter.

As early as the reign of King James I, one of the younger sons of the family emigrated to Ireland, served in the wars, and finally settled in Tyrone. Most of the McCauslands of Tyrone and Londonderry, however, are descended from one Baron MacAuslane, of Buchanan, who, with his two sons, migrated from the parish of Luss to Ireland about the latter period of the reign of King James VI (1604-25). From this Baron MacAuslane are traced several long lines. All along the route of the old mail coach road from Derry to Dungannon, on the Belfast route, the early McCauslands settled, and many of their descendants live there to this day.

The elder son of this Baron MacAuslane was the father of Col. Robert McCausland, of Fruithill, near Newton Limavidy, Co. Londonderry, who died 1734. He had estates in the parish of Cappagh, Co. Tyrone, and some other property. The family seat is now of Drenagh, formerly Fruithill, Limavidy. The family names are Andrew, Conolly, Robert, and Marcus. Arms: Or, a boar's head erased between three boars, passant, azure. Crest: A boar's head erased azure, armed or, langued gules, and charged with a crescent of the second. Motto: Virtus sola nobilitat. The McCauslands of Bessbrooke are also descended from Col. Robert of Drenagh. They have the same arms. Crest: A chapeau gules, turned up ermine, a boar's head erased azure. From this branch are sprung the MacCauslands of Formass, Six Mile Cross, who held the town land of Formass for many generations.

The McCauslands of Strabane and Lifford are descended from this Baron MacAuslane thru his son Andrew and grandson Alexander, who in the wars prior to 1649 was awarded estates including the Manors of Ardstrath, Mountfield, and others. The McCauslands of Rush belong to this branch. The McCauslands intermarried with the Hamilton and other families of wealth and prominence. Many distinguished persons are included in this line. The family sent representatives to Parliament for more than a century; other members were noted rectors and divines; some were soldiers. Catherine McCausland married the Right Honorable Lord Plunkett, at one time Lord Chancellor of Ireland. Many wealthy estates were owned. The family names include most prominently Alexander, Oliver, John, James, and Andrew. Arms: Or, a lion rampant, sable, holding in the dexter paw a sabre proper, within a double tressure flory, counter flory of the second. Crest: A hand couped, holding a duke's coronet or cap of maintenance, surrounded by two laurel branches wreathed. Motto over: Audaces juvo (I aid the bold). Motto under: Clarior hinc honos (Honor brightens itself).

Still another family is the Drumnakilly McCauslands. Their history is given in Chapter III.

CHAPTER II

THE CLAN BUCHANAN

Away back in the year 1016, when the Danes, to avenge the massacre of Limerick, persecuted and destroyed great numbers of the Irish, one Buey Anselan, son of O'Kyan, King of Ulster, passed over to Scotland with a body of followers. They gave great assistance to Malcolm II in his wars and invasions of Northumberland, and were rewarded by Malcolm with grants of land of considerable value, and a splendid coat of arms. The territory thus conferred was called the "lands of Buchanan" and Anselan took up his abode there as "Buey Anselan, Dominie de Buchanan", and his descendants are Lairds of Buchanan. From the younger sons of this line are descended the Buchanans of the present day. Through marriage with an heiress by the name of Denniestown Anselan acquired additional lands, and from time to time other grants were made to the family, including, in 1225, a grant to Clar Innis, an island in Loch Lomond, which served as a rendezvous for the fighting men of the clan. From this name was derived the war shout of the Buchanans—"Clar Innis". By raising this cry half a hundred warriors, with their followers, could be gathered in a few hours' time. The badge or flower of the Clan is the bilberry. Scarlet, yellow and black predominate in the tartan.

The second Laird was called John McAuslane, and the line continues until the death of John, the last of the Lairds, in 1682. He left an only daughter, an heiress, who married one of the Campbells, and after his death she sold her inheritance to Sir Humphrey Colqhoun, of Luss, her superior. Most of the McCauslands now settled in the north of Ireland are supposed to be descended from the Baron McAuslane who went out from the Parish of Luss about the latter period of the reign of King James VI, 1604-1625.

One Sir Alexander McAuslane, a member of this family, acquired distinction at the battle of Beaugue in Anjou, Anno 1421, where he is said to have slain Thomas Plantagenet, Duke of Clarence, the brother of King Henry V of England. Tradition has it that for this service the French King awarded the victor a double tressure fleury as an augmentation for his Coat of Arms, and a hand holding a cap of honor for a crest. The complete Arms and Crest of the Scottish McCauslands is as follows:

Or, a lion rampant, sable, holding in the dexter paw a sabre proper, within a double tressure fleury, counter fleury of the second.

Crest: A hand couped, holding a duke's coronet or cap of maintenance, surrounded by two laurel branches wreathed. Motto over: Audaces Juvo (I aid the bold). Motto under: Clarior hinc honos (Honor brightens itself).

The country possessed by this clan stretches on the north side of Loch Lomond, about eighteen miles, and the house of Buchanan on its bank is now the mansion of His Grace, the Duke of Montrose. It is said to be one of the most beautiful spots in all Scotland.

CHAPTER III

THE DRUMNAKILLY M'CAUSLANDS

It is impossible to determine the exact descent of the Drumnakilly McCauslands, but the armorial bearings (A boar's head erased betw. three boars passant, azure. Crest: A boar's head erased, azure) would indicate that the line sprang from Col. Robert McCausland of Drenagh. A later armor used by some members of the family shows a mother pig with litter of young. The origin of this insignia is not known. Dilgent search has failed to reveal the name of the first McCausland to whom the Drumnakilly Estate was granted. Be that as it may, the founder of the family was granted, as a reward for bravery in the wars at the close of the seventeenth century, a large estate in Cappagh Parish. The Estate included the townlands of Upper and Lower Clogh finn, Crackencor, Upper and Lower Drumnakilly, Feccary, Ballingilly, Recolpagh, Cullycurragh, Fernagh, and Deer Park, and possibly some other lands. Thus the Drumnakilly line was started, and for many generations the family continued very wealthy. Baron's Court, the country seat of the Duke of Abercorn was one situated on this estate. The old house which once belonged to Capt. McCausland still stands, altho the property has been purchased by a stranger farmer. The house is a long, low building, and in an earlier day was covered with lovely vines and creepers, and surrounded by beautiful gardens.

A search of the records in the Registry Office at Dublin revealed some interesting documents concerning the Drumnakilly McCauslands. The first is dated 1728. We quote it as follows:

"Memorial of Deeds of Lease and Release, dated 28th and 29th November, 1728, the Lease made between Alexander McCausland of Omagh, Co. Tyrone, Esq. and John McCausland third son of said Alexander McCausland, of the one part, and William Hamilton of Calledon in sd Co. of Tyrone, clerk Archdeacon of Armagh and Oliver McCausland of Rush in sd Co. of Tyrone, Esq. of the other part; and the Relase being an Indenture Tripartite made between said Alex. Alexander McCausland.

Registered 11th November, 1763.

Comes next Lt. Alexander McCausland, on matrimony bent.

Memorial of an indented Deed dated 18th December 1769. and made between Alexander McCausland of Omagh, Co. Tyrone, Esq. Lieutenant in his Majesty's 12th Regiment of Dragoons, of the first part, Rose Saunderson of the Lodge in the Queen's County, widow, sole Executrix of Alex Saunderson, late of the Lodge, Esq. dec'd. and mother and guardian of Henrietta Saunderson, one of the daughters of the sd. Alex. Saunderson, said Henrietta Saunderson, the daughter, of the second part, John Loyd of Gloster, King's Co. Esq. and Hardress Loyd of Gloster, Esq. of the third part, and Alex. McClintock and John McClintock of Drumcarr, Co. South, Esq. of the 4th part. Reciting that a marriage was then intended to be shortly solemnized between said Alex. McCausland and Henrietta Saunderson.

—Terms of Settlement—

Lands of Upper and Lower Cloghfinn, Crackencor, otherwise Crackecor, Upper and Lower Drumnakilly, and the Tuck Mill thereon, etc. . . .

Witnesses: Alexander McCausland.

Wm. Hayes, of the City of Dublin, Upholder.

Henry Retagh of said City, Gent.

Reg'd 18th Dec. 1769.

Nineteen years later comes an indented deed by Margaret, widow of Alexander McCausland of Omagh. This would indicate that the Lt. Alex. McCausland mentioned in the previous deed had married a second time, and therefore tallies with the tradition of the founding of the Donaghanie family. It is said that after several generations a dispute arose concerning the inheritance of the Estate. The father had married a second time and the second wife secured the estate for her sons. The alleged rightful, or disinherited heirs, lacking the funds necessary for a law suit, were unable to substantiate their claims, and were obliged to bid farewell to Drumnakilly and the estate. The disinherited heirs scattered from Drumnakilly. William settled at Donaghanie, Beragh, and founded the family which is traced in the succeeding chapters.

Memorial of an Indented Deed, dated 20th December, 1788, and made between Marg. McCausland of the City of Dublin, widow of Alexander McCausland, late of Omagh, Co. Tyrone, Esq. deceased, of the first part, George Madden of the same city, Gent, of the second part, and Richard Eaton of Richmond, Co. Dublin, Esq, and Rowley Heyland of the City of Dublin, Gent, of the third part, whereby said Marg. McCausland did grant and assign unto said Rich'd Eaton and Rowley Heyland, all that and those one annunity yearly rent charge of £100. for the life of said Marg. McCausland issuing and payable out of all that and those Upper and Lower Cloughfinn, Crackencor, Upper and Lower Drumnakilly, the tuck mill, etc. . . . Witnessed by Roger Uctherall and Wm. Handcock of the City of Dublin, Esq.

Marg. McCausland.

Reg'd 25th December, 1788.

Alexander McCausland grants an annuity:

Memorial of an Indenture dated 1st Sept. 1787, made between Alexander McCausland of Omagh, Co. Tyrone, Esq, of the one part and the Rev'd Robt. Heyland, Rector of Colerain, Co. Londonderry, Clk, and Allen Bellingham of the City of Dublin, Esq. of the other part. Whereby said McCausland did grant unto said Heyland and Bellingham one annuity or yearly rent charge of £100. to be issuing out of all that and those Upper Cloghfinn, Lower Cloghfinn, Crackecor, Upper Drumnakilly, etc. . . ., To have and to hold the said annuity in trust for the purposes therein mentioned. Witnessed by Wm. Ball and Geo. Fred'k Winstanly, both of Richmond, Co. Dublin, Esqs. Mem. witnessed by said Wm. Ball and Thomas Henry.

Robert Heyland.

Reg'd 3rd November, 1787.

The final entry concerns Lt. John McCausland, of Omagh, probably a son of Lt. Alexander and Margaret McCausland.

Memorial of an indented Deed, dated 22nd Sept. 1798 and made between John McCausland, Esq, Lieutenant in the 5th Royal Irish Regiment of Light Dragoons of the one part and Samuel Galbraith of Omagh, Co. Tyrone, Esq. of the other part, whereby said John McCausland in consideration of £100. to him paid by said Samuel Galbraith did grant, bargain, sell, release and confirm unto said Galbraith and to his heirs and assigns all that and those that part of the town and lands of Drumnakilly, arable pastures, meadows and bogs on the Docenan side of the river, commonly called Brackey River, neared on the one side by Donovan, on the other side by the town land of Dreenan, and on the other side by the river called Brackey river, situate, lying, and being in the parish of Termonnaquirk, said Co. of Tyrone, with the appurtenances thereto, To have and to hold the said lands, and premises unto the said Galbraith, his heirs and assigns, forever. Witnessed by the Rev'd. Claudious Crigan of Newland, Clerk, and James Galbraith of Omagh, Gent, both in Co. Tyrone. Memorial witnessed by said James Galbraith and Robert Hunter of Omagh in said Co., Gent.

Samuel Galbraith.

Registered 13th December, 1798.

Jane McCausland mar. William Elkins, and family cannot be located.

CHAPTER IV

WILLIAM M'CAUSLAND of DONAGHANIE

(1) WILLIAM M'CAUSLAND, a descendant of the Drumnakilly family, settled in Donaghanie. His father's name is supposed to have been James, but this has not been definitely proven. William was a farmer and weaver. He married a Miss Miller, and to them were born seven sons. The name of one of these is unknown. When in the year 1798 volunteers were asked for, all seven sons enlisted in the Regiment known as the Yeomanry. The seven sons, with their father, fought and defended themselves throughout the troublesome times of '98 against the assaults of the United Party, and distinguished themselves by being one of the only two families in the surrounding locality (less one which surrendered the night before they were relieved) which held out to the last. When the house was attacked, the family stuffed ticks filled with feathers into the windows and returned the fire. On one occasion after a whole night's encounter the family found their store of bullets exhausted while their dwelling was still being fired into, and as a last resource, shotguns loaded with hobnails were used so effectually as to scatter their foes. When the relief party came, they took the rolls of the United Party and burned the houses of all whose names were found therein. The house in which William McCausland then lived still stands, and is in possession of Miss Sarah Jane McCausland, having been willed to her by her father Alexander, nephew of Alexander and William, sons of Wiliam. The children all lived in Donaghanie or vicinity and engaged in farming and weaving, some of them later emigrating to America.

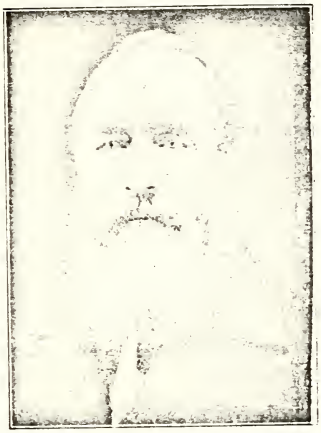
(13) ALEXANDER M'CAUSLAND, son of John McCausland and Elizabeth Fenton, born Feb. 22, 1816, in Donaghanie, Co. Tyrone, Ireland; died May 16, 1892, at Neodasha, Kans. He came to this country with his parents when 7 years old, and settled near Webster, Mass; was apprenticed to a shoemaker at Lynne, Mass, while a boy; attended Hollistown Academy, Mass; taught school for a time. In 1840 he removed to Morgan (Ashtabula) Co. Ohio, and studied medicine with Dr. Omri Willey. Owing to delicate health he gave up the life of an M.D. and engaged in the boot and shoe business. While thus engaged he met Sarah Sylphina Howard, dau. of Joseph Howard and Olive Leonard, who came from Vermont to live with her brother.



ALEXANDER McCAUSLAND

They were united in marriage Sept. 1, 1844, at the "Mansion House", Morgan Co. Ohio, by Rev. Horace A. Taylor. She was born in Richmond, N. H., Aug. 17, 1822, and is still living at the home of her daughter. Mrs. I. N. Latimer, at Rock Creek, Ohio. Alexander was postmaster for some years and also president of the Board of Education. He gave up busines for a time and engaged in agricultural pursuits, then removed to Neodasha, Kans. in 1880, where he again resumed business as a druggist and continued until his death in 1892. He was a devoted Free Mason, and in later years a member of the M. E. Church. Children were all born in Rock Creek, Ohio.

CHAPTER VII

THE FOURTH GENERATION

(19) MARY M'CAUSLAND, dau. of William McCausland and Elizabeth McNeal, b. March 10, 1834, Co. Tyrone; Mar. July 17, 1854, Philadelphia, James Young, son of William and Catherine Young, who was also born in Co. Tyrone. He came to this country when a young man, and became a Philadelphia policeman. At the time Fox was elected Mayor of Philadelphia there was great trouble and rioting at the election polls. James Young was asisgned to duty at the corner of Eighth and Lumber Sts, to protect the ballot box. Just as the polls were closing a mob of more than a hundred men, of the democratic faction, rushed the booth in an attempt to steal the ballot box. The outer police guard, seeing the mob, fled like the cowards they were. Young never moved. He said he would do his duty till the last, and he did. Some ruffain in the crowd shot him 4 times and he died 16 hours later. He was in his 38th year at the time of his death. Mary Young lived in Philadelphia until her death, Sept. 6, 1911. Her four stalwart sons bore her body to its last resting place in Mt. Moriah Cemetery, Philadelphia, where many of the McCauslands and Youngs are buried. The children of James and Mary were all born in Philadelphia. They are tall, of light complexion, and gentlemanly and ladylike in bearing.

Married Nov. 17, 1864, in Philadelphia, Jane Lindsey, dau. of Thomas Lindsey and Margaret Kincaid, who was b. abt. 1841, in Co. Tyrone, near Castlederry. He enlisted Sept. 5, 1861, from Philadelphia, in U. S. Army and served 3 years as a private under Capt. Wheeland and Col. Rush in Co. C, 6th Pa. Volunteer Cavalry; was one of the far famed Rush's Lancers. Honorably discharged Sept. 14, 1864, at Harper's Ferry, at expiration of service, and is a member of Hancock Post. No. 255, G. A. R. in Downington, Pa. He was wounded in the march to Gettysburg. Though a small man, he was mighty in courage and strength, and many interesting tales are told of his prowess and daring. On one occasion during his army service John McCausland was cornered in a lonely building with an enemy much larger than himself. He seized a section of stove pipe and used it as a weapon with which he successfully beat off his antagonist and escaped. He is engaged in farming at Lyndell, Pa., at present time.

Married May 4, 1871, in Philadelphia, Ruth Connor, dau. of Thomas Connor and Rachel Hyde (nee Marion) who was b. 1849, in Philadelphia. William came to this country at the age of nine years, and some 5 or 6 years later was placed with a harness and saddle manufacturer as apprentice. In 1885 he succeeded his employer and finally became the leading riding saddle manufacturer in Philadelphia and the eastern states. He made the first leather tree English saddle that afterwards became famous in the racing world. At his death the sons inherited the business. He was prominent in all temperance conferences and work in eastern Pennsylvania. The following is quoted from a Philadelphia newspaper in speaking of his death, which occurred in Collingdale, Penna. on Nov. 17, 1909.

"He was one of the most gifted and gallant men—a man who bravely stood for civic righteousness and who nobly challenged the right of the liquor traffic to live.

"'McCausland, the Prohibitionist, is dead; but prohibition, the choicest flower in our public life, will spring from his grave to give fragrance and beauty to this fair State, and eternity will yet ring with the praises of those who will live in the pure atmosphere made possible by the principles of such faithful and courageous lives."

(50) JAMES YOUNG, son of James Young and Mary McCausland, b. Philadelphia, 1859, is a very gritty sort of man. Several years ago, while walking home along a railroad track in the country during a blizzard, he fell in a hole in the dark, and broke his leg above the knee. He crawled on his stomach through the deep snow and sleet for a distance of 5 miles to the nearest house, an exhibition of grit and fortitude that few men could show. He is a bachelor.

(51) JOHN C. YOUNG, son of James Young and Mary McCausland, b. Feb. 28, 1861, Philadelphia. Mar. Feb. 28, 1887, Elizabeth Chambers, dau. of Robert Chambers and Jane Davis, who was b. in Newark, England. This is what the Philadelphia Young Republican, Sept. 20, 1911, said of him:

JOHN C. YOUNG

"For many years John C. Young has been classed among the foremost interior decorators to be found doing business in Philadelphia.

"For the past fifteen years Mr. Young has resided in the Fortieth ward. He is a president of the Woodland Realty Company, vice president of Broad and Chestnut Building & Loan, the Bartram Building & Loan and kindred associations. He is also vice president of the Thomas T. Horney Bible Union and treasurer of the Woodland Avenue Business Men's Association. Mr. Young has met with much business success by deserving it. His integrity is unquestioned. He knows every inch of ground that composes the Fortieth ward, and is, therefore, fully advised to the needed public improvement that would make for the development and progress for his ward. Mr. Young had no urgent desire to enter public life. He consented to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for Common Council at the earnest solicitation of the leading business men and citizens generally." Mr. Young was elected a member of the Philadelphia Common Council Oct. 27, 1911. He resides 6412 Woodland Ave, Philadelphia. He has a family of four splendid children, all b. in Philadelphia.

CHAPTER IX

THE M'CAUSLANDS OF FORMASS

The McCauslands of Formass are closely related to the McCauslands of Drumnakilly and Donaghanie. Their estate adjoined that of the Drumnakilly family. The Donaghanie McCauslands lived a few miles to the west. A few descendants of the Formass family live at Formass, Six Mile Cross today, while others are scattered throughout America. For several generations the Formass estate was kept intact, but with the rebellion of 1798 came troublesome times for the Formass McCauslands, and much of their land was lost. The story of the breaking up of the family is a sad one. One by one they left the old home and sailed away to found a new home in the new world. The McCauslands who dwell at Formass today are farmers.

James McCausland was the first of the Formass family of whom we have any definite information. He was born probably about 1700. He grew to manhood at Formass, married, and raised a family of five sons, William, James, John, Thomas and Alexander. He had two grandsons, William and James, who never married, but lived together at an old homestead in Formass.

Of the five sons of James, John is the only one we were able to trace. He also had five sons, Thomas, born 1773, and Samuel, James, John and Daniel. They all resided at Formass until the time of the rebellion. After that the family scattered.

Thomas McCausland, son of John, of Formass, with his father and brothers fought against the union with England. When the cause was lost their property was taken from them. Thomas married, abt. 1821, Margaret Waddel. He was 16 at the time of the rebellion, but was permitted to join the army. Thomas had three children, Henry, Slone and Margaret.

Henry was b. 1820, in Formass. He mar. Eliza Stuart, and they eventually removed to America. Their children were Margaret Elizabeth, b. 1850. John Stuart, b. 1857, Mary, 1851, who resides resides at Westboro, Mass. James, 1854, of Chicago, and Jane, 1857, of Cambridge, Thomas, William Henry and Anna.

John Stuart McCausland mar. Elizabeth Curry, and resides 21 Pine St, Westboro, Mass. His son Thomas Henry, 1878, resides Milford, Mass, and has one son Raymond Henry, b. Mch. 26, 1909. James Ernest, 1881, mar. Aurora Anderberger, and lives in Worcestor. They have two children, Everett Alexander, July 12, 1909, and Roland Ernest, Jan. 28, 1906. Stuart Ralson, 1883, has one son, Edwin Stuart. John Stuart McCausland also has three children, unm, Albert John, 1886, Eathel May, 1889, and Helen M, 1895.

Samuel McCausland, son of John of Formass, lived in Formass until the time of the Emmet Rebellion. He was opposed to the Union, and was driven out of the country at the time of the rebellion. He mar, Jane Cerr. They had three children. William, settled in Formass, Cathren married, name unknown, and Thomas.

Thomas mar. Jane Armstrong. He d. Dec. 27, 1881. They had many children. Mary Ann, Margaret, William J, John, who mar. Miss Orr, Thomas, who mar. Miss Patterson and settled in Corelto Co, Minn, Sarah, Cathren of New York City, Samuel of New York City, Alexander and Andrew.

John McCausland, son of John of Formass, mar. Nancy Sloan of Bleachgreens.

Daniel McCausland, son of John of Formass, mar. Margaret McFadden, and had four children, Thomas, Alexander, Nancy, Daniel, Thomas had 1 son Dunkan. Daniel mar. Letty MacNickle of Gorten, ne. of Omagh.

CHAPTER X

ANCESTRAL FAMILY OF GEN. JOHN M'CAUSLAND

Close by the estates mentioned in the previous chapters dwelt another McCausland family, sprung from the same source. The founder of this family settled on the estate of Lord Mountjoy at the time of the Ulster settlement. Their post office was Six Mile Cross. About the beginning of the nineteenth century Alexander McCausland married Elizabeth Kyle, and in 1819 they immigrated to America with their family. There were eleven children, William, Rosanna, Margaret, David, Alexander, John, Jane, James, Audley, Elizabeth and Mary. A few of these we trace:

William had two sons, Edward M, and W. G. and one sister, Edward M. was b. June 10, 1835, in Lafayette Co, Mo. and d. same place Apr. 23, 1873. He was a farmer. He mar. Harriet P. Warren, and they had two sons, Ernest M, and Walter A. Ernest M. was b. June 4, 1860, Higginsville, Mo. Mar. at Lexington, Mo, Oct. 1, 1891, Jennie Goode, dau. of G. M. Goode and Mary Goode. Ernest M. McCausland for 19 years was a dry goods merchant, and for the past 14 years has been with the New York Life Ins. Co. He is now agency director with headquarters at Acampo, Calif. He has two sons. Edward G., b. Apr. 20, 1893, at Lexington, Mo, and Harold G, b. Sept. 29, 1904, at St. Joseph. Walter A. McCausland was b. Feb. 17, 1859, near Corder, Mo, and was mar. Oct. 26, 1892, at Greenfield, Ind, to Harriet Rains, dau. of Benj. and Rosean Raines. Walter A. practiced law 15 years and then entered the ministry of the Christian Church. He is located at College City, Calif. He has one dau, Harriet R, b. Oct. 24, 1893, at Howard, Elk Co, Kansas.

Rosanna was b. 1800 and d. 1863. She mar. Ralph Clayton and had one dau, Mary.

John McCausland came to America when about 21 years of age, and first made his home at Lynchburg with David Kyle, whose dau, Harriet, he subsequently married. He became a prominent merchant and finally resided at St. Louis, where he rendered valuable services as Commissioner of Taxation. He was the father of Gen. John McCausland. His other ch. were Robert Kyle and Laura.

"John (Brigadier General), was b. at St. Louis Sept. 13, 1837; in 1849 he went with his brother to Point Pleasant, Mason Co, W. Va. He graduated with first honors in class of 1857 at the Va. Military Institute, and subsequently acted as Professor in that institution. He was one of the most conspicuous figures in the warfare in the Valley of the Shenandoah, and on the borders of Virginia, held important Confederate commands and gained a national reputation as a brilliant leader and persistent fighter. General John McCausland, after the close of hostilities, spent a year or two in Europe and Mexico, and then returned to Mason County, where he has ever since resided in quiet upon his farm at Grimm's Landing.

CHAPTER XI

M'CAUSLANDS OF CAPPAGH

Another family undoubtedly related to the McCauslands of Drumnakilly and Donaghanie, originated in Cappagh Parish at the time of the Ulster Settlement. The pioneer of this family came over from Scotland and settled on the estate of Lord Mountjoy. This McCausland, and the son who succeeded him were well off, and kept a good house in those ancient days. They were Royalists, and belonged to the Army. The elder McCausland had a Masonic Lodge in one of his parlors; every member had his own decanter, tumbler, and glass, with his name engraved thereon. When a new parish church was to be built, McCausland gave a large piece of land as the site for the church and graveyard. A descendant of this elder McCausland married Elizabeth Letts, daughter of John Letts, who was in the army and settled in Omagh as billet officer for the regiments on march, and held other offices of importance. McCausland was an architect and builder, succeeding his uncle Robert Letts in that profession. The children born to this union were Robert, William, James, Elizabeth and Fanny, and excepting Robert were lost track of in Brooklyn many years ago. Robert mar. Caroline Elizabeth Klophel, and settled in Toronto, where he was a time an architect and later the head master of Louisa and Bathhurst St. Schools. His children and grandchildren reside in Canada, Pennsylvania and near by points. Among them are Mrs. James MacDonald, Woodstock, Canada; Mrs. Herbert J. Sangster, Port Perry, Canada; Dr. R. J. McCausland, 5010 Kingsessing Ave, Philadelphia; William Arthur McCausland, Mansfield, Pa; Mrs. Sidney Jay Jenckes, Perry, N. Y; Mrs. Corbett, of Winnipeg; Mrs. W. B. Stoddard, 743 Madison Ave, Scranton, Penna, and others unmarried.
